NEW YORE, Sept. 19.—This evening's Com nercial says, we think we have sufficient au thority for saying that, so far as a movement of the national troops is concerned, there is no probability of an engagement within thirty days. Of course, if attacked, there will be a general and severe battle. Our troops are well prepared to meet any number the enemy may bring, but for perfecting the arrangements for the onward movement, it is deemed best to accomplish certain things which may not be effectually done in less than thirty days. The foreign rows by the late arrivals from Europe seems to give confirmation to the reports that a large amount of grain would be needed in both Great Britain and France during the coming year. Too large a calculation should not be made by our farmers on the effects of a probable good European demand on prices in this country. The aggregate amount of grain in the country that will require a foreign market will be large, and the enormously large shipments of the past year have given our markets in the Laterior but little advantage in the way of tigh prices. It is much better to realize the fact that the movement of grain is based upon a healthy demand than upon ejeculative excitament, angendered by that the movement of grain is based upon a healthy demand than upon speculative excitament, engendered by a fictious standard of credits or currency.
